

This workshop is organized by the initiative Women* in Ancient Philosophy and sponsored by the Research Training Group Philosophy, Science and the Sciences at Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin. This event provides an opportunity for young scholars to present and discuss their research in a safe and supportive environment, to share experience and advice, and to make new contacts in their field. The workshop features two plenary talks by distinguished keynote speakers:

Rachana Kamtekar (Cornell) & Laurence Totelin (Cardiff).

Abstracts (300 words) can be on any topic in Ancient Philosophy or Ancient Science, in the spirit of interdisciplinarity.

Format: This will be a pre-read conference. Selected speakers will be asked to send us their complete papers (3000 words max) by 19 June, so that they can be circulated among the participants with due time in advance.

Sessions will last 75 minutes (15 minutes summary + 60 minutes discussion). Accommodation and travel expenses will be covered for all speakers by Humboldt-Universität.

Please send the following to: women.ancient.philosophy@gmail.com in .pdf format:

(1) A cover letter containing your name, institutional affiliation, contact information, and the title of your paper.

(2) An abstract (300 words max) of your paper with no identifying information.

We will send out notifications by the first week of May.

For more information, please visit the website of our Women* in Ancient Philosophy initiative: <https://ancient-philosophy.hu-berlin.de/en/ancient-philosophy/women>

Please contact us with any questions at women.ancient.philosophy@gmail.com

Organizing committee: Elena Bellini (she/her), Sinem Kılıç (she/her), Benjamin Wilck (he/him)